Labor and Inflation Bills Promise War in Congress

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—An abundance of opportunities for conflict and turmoil in the forthcoming session of congress was forecast today by some members who have been surveying legislative prospects.

They pointed to such far-reaching measures as the Frazier-Lemke bill to refinance farm indebtedness with $3,000,000,000 of new money, the Black-Connery 30-hour work week bill and a bill to divorce manufacturing and retailing contemplated by Rep. Patman, Democrat, of Texas.

There also is much talk of amending the Constitution to give congress specific power to enact legislation of a social character.

The question of a new appropriation for relief appeared likely to be an early trouble-maker. Some house and senate members believe it should be held to a minimum; others want a sizeable sum. Rep. Dunn, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, may put in another $10,000,000,000 works relief bill.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has forecast that widespread absorption of jobless in private industry would result from continued recovery, and has demanded that federal work relief be terminated by gradual steps.

The American Federation of Labor's executive council has suggested another relief appropriation immediately after congress meets. The federation also indorsed the 30-hour week bill without qualification.

Among the measures listed by the chamber as likely to receive attention—any of which might be loaded with dynamite to shatter a tranquil congress—were crop insurance, farm tenancy, low cost housing, aid for consumer cooperatives, food and drug regulation and extension of the holding company act.

BRIDE-ELECT SLAIN BY SORORITY SISTER

Dean's Daughter Shot by Bosom Friend While Addressing Wedding Invitations

By The Associated Press

EAST LANSING, Mich., Dec. 9—A grief-stricken family abandoned gay wedding plans today for Miss Elizabeth B. Giltner, 25-year-old bride-elect, slain, police said, by a sorority sister who confessed obeying an impulse to kill.

Miss Giltner, a college dean's daughter, was found shot to death late yesterday in her home where she and her chum had been addressing invitations to her wedding Saturday to Capt. David S. Babcock, an R. O. T. C. instructor at Michigan State college.

Lieut. Harold Mulbar, state police detective, said that Miss Hope Morgan, also 25, who had been a lifelong friend of Miss Giltner, confessed verbally that she fired five shots at the bride-to-be.

"I had to shoot her," Mulbar said Miss Morgan told him. "I did it on an impulse and can't explain why, but I couldn't help myself. I had my father's gun with me and I felt like killing someone."

The state police medical advisor, Dr. Lemoine Snyder, interviewed Miss Morgan and said that she showed no remorse and was definitely insane.

HEARING IN WATER RATE FIGHT NEARS

Company Now Preparing Data for Submission to Utilities Board

There were indications today the way may be cleared soon for a hearing of Marion's water rate fight before the state utilities commission.

The Associated Press reported commission members said they are waiting for the Marion Water Co. to complete the filing of its exhibits, including records showing its operating expenses and audits, before it proceeds with a hearing.

Meanwhile George Whysall, superintendent of the Marion Water Co., reported engineers who have been in Marion several months preparing material the company plans to introduce in the rate controversy left Marion Saturday after completing their field notes.

He would not estimate how long it will take to prepare the material for filing with the commission.

The rate controversy was taken before the commission when city council adopted an ordinance proposing a 12½ per cent reduction in rates and the company protested, contending such rates would be confiscatory.

STATE BOARD RULES IN TWO COUNTY CASES

Decision Mailed to Marion Age Pension Officials Not Yet Received

DETAILS ARE UNKNOWN

Action Follows Hearing on Charges Against Administrator, Investigator

The state civil service commission today affirmed the removal of James E. Kirby as Marion county old age pension administrator and ordered reinstatement of Walter E. Mathiot as an investigator in the pension office here.

The Associated Press reported the commission [illegible] the county board of aid for the aged, which filed the charges against the [illegible].

At noon today, Mrs. Lucy McNamara, chairman of the county [illegible] board, and other board members said they had not yet received the copy of the decision which has been mailed here.

Statement of Commission

The text of the commission's decision as reported by The Associated Press follows:

After careful consideration of the evidence adduced at the hearing of the appeal of Mr. James E. Kirby from the order of the board of aid for aged, discharging him from the position of administrator, Grade III, Marion county division of aid for the aged, the commission affirmed the order of removal filed against him.

Upon consideration of the evidence adduced at the hearing of the appeal of Mr. Walter Mathiot from the order of the board, discharging him from the position of investigator, Marion county division of aid for the aged, the commission disaffirmed the order of removal and directed that he be reinstated to his position and salary.

The decisions of the state civil service commission in these cases have been delayed by the commission due to the fact that during the course of the hearing before the commission it appeared that some members of the Marion county board indicated their regret at having preferred charges against both employes and opportunity was therefore given to rescind such actions of removal should they so desire. Sufficient time having elapsed to permit such retraction of charges if the board desired and no such action having been taken, the commission accordingly rendered its decisions as stated herein in accordance with the testimony adduced at the time of the hearings.

J. W. Jacoby, counsel for Kirby, when advised of the decision said he is uncertain whether Kirby can appeal the decision to a court.

Cases of Kirby and Mathiot were tried before the state commission sitting in Marion on Nov. 6. The cases have been under advisement since that time. The commissioners

MORE FARMERS TO SHARE IN PAYMENTS

Main Feature of New Setup Aims at Control of U. S. Corn Acreage

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—Agriculture department officials predicted today more farmers would share in the $500,000,000 benefit payments planned under the 1937 federal farm program, the principal feature of which will be an attempt to control corn acreage.

Greater inducements to small farm operators and inclusion of more dairymen, ranchers and stockmen were listed as other major changes from the 1936 plan by J. B. Hutson of the agricultural adjustment administration.

As under this year's program, farmers may earn two classes of payments—one for reducing acreage of corn, cotton, wheat, tobacco and other major crops and the other for following approved methods of building up land fertility.

Congress must appropriate funds before the program can be put into effect.

LAME DUCKS TO TACKLE TAXES

House Leaders Prepare To Offer Bills To Provide $65,000,000 for 1937.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 9—While a special senate committee drafted an unemployment insurance bill behind closed doors, house leaders prepared to offer bills for reenactment of a taxation program to provide $65,000,000 in revenue for 1937.

The senate committee went into executive session with Prof. [illegible] Bowers of the department of economics at Ohio State university. Indications were that an attempt was being made to get a bill acceptable to all factions into shape for presentation to the senate this afternoon.

Speaker J. Freer Bittinger said he would submit to the house this afternoon a motion proposing immediate consideration of the taxation program. He said if the house defeated the motion that body would recess until the senate acted on the insurance measure.

Ready for action, Bittinger said, if the motion is approved are bills to reenact Ohio's three per cent retail sales levy and use, liquid fuel, admissions and cigaret taxes.

All except the sales tax would be reenacted for two years. They expire March 31, 1937. Bittinger said no expiration date was provided for the sales levy and that if passed in that form would remain in effect until legislative action would be taken to halt it.

The senate committee had under consideration the Pond-Hunter and McIntyre Bills, each providing a state wide "pool plan" for insurance premiums but differing as to employer ratings after five year trial periods.

The committee has declined to adopt proposals that employes contribute to the fund or that employers guarantee a certain amount of work each year. An amendment to make strikers ineligible for benefits was accepted, however, as was one to exempt persons employed on a commission basis.

Wally Consults Attorney On Closing London Home

By The Associated Press

CANNES, France, Dec. 9—Mrs. Wallis Simpson, secluded in the villa of New York friends, [illegible] with her London lawyer on arrangements for closing her home in the British capital.

Dr. Douglas Kirkwood, the physician who flew with Attorney Theodore Goddard to Mrs. Simpson's seaside retreat, left Cannes for an excursion to Monte Carlo.

The physician, a medical officer of Queen Charlotte's Hospital for Women in London, left his luggage at a hotel where employes said he [illegible] return today.

Lord Brownlow, King Edward's [illegible], attended the conference between the American woman and her lawyer concerned with the details of terminating Mrs. Simpson's lease on her Cumberland Terrace home.

Brownlow denied that the physician had been called to attend Mrs. Simpson.

Instead of being summoned by Mrs. Simpson, Brownlow said, the physician had accompanied Goddard, who, because he is in poor health and this is the first time he has flown, thought it advisable to bring the doctor with him.

MARION MAN MET KING IN WAR TIME

Ralph Moyer Recalls Conversation With the Then Prince of Wales in Germany

A Marion man who had a brief talk with King Edward, then the Prince of Wales, in Coblenz, Germany, a few months after the signing of the World war armistice in 1918, has been watching developments in the monarch's romance with Mrs. Simpson.

He is Ralph Moyer of 941 Uncapher avenue, a machinist at the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Moyer this morning spoke in praise of the king as he recalled the occasion of their meeting but ventured no predictions or opinions regarding King Edward's problems.

Moyer was with the American army of occupation at Coblenz following service in the war as an airplane motor mechanic when he had opportunity to converse with the prince, now King Edward VIII.

"We had arranged an exposition of equipment that included airplane motors of all kinds and I was working around the exhibit when Edward, President Wilson, General Pershing, Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, King Albert of Belgium and other dignitaries visited Coblenz to review the display," Moyer said.

Mr. Moyer said King Edward, who now is an ardent aviation enthusiast, showed remarkable knowledge of airplane motors for one not specializing in that field, and recalls he was impressed by his personality.

Moyer said he discussed motors with the group for about five minutes.

The incident took place in the January following the signing of the armistice. Moyer served two years in the army and returned to Marion, his former home, after the war.

DIVIDEND PAYMENT APPROVED BY JUDGE

1,500 Depositors To Receive $16,385 from Closed Marion Savings Bank.

Common Pleas Judge Hector R. Young yesterday authorized the payment of a five per cent dividend amounting to $16,385.[illegible] by the closed Marion Savings bank. His action followed an application filed recently by C. A. White, liquidator, from the office of the state superintendent of banks to make the payment, which will be the fifth since the bank closed its doors in March, 1931.

The [illegible] per cent dividend will affect about 1,500 depositors, Mr. White said, and brings the total per cent paid back to the depositors to 43 per cent.

In the four other dividends amounting to 38 per cent the bank has paid out approximately $140,000. The total claims filed with Mr. White by depositors after the closing amounted to $420,294.22. Part of these deposits have been liquidated by exchanging mortgage loans and real estate, Mr. White said.

KENTUCKY GENERAL BAILED IN SLAYING

Bond Fixed at $25,000 With State Health Director as Surety

By The Associated Press

NEW CASTLE, Ky., Dec. 9—Circuit Judge Charles C. Marshall today granted bail to Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, charged with the murder of Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, his fiancee.

The motion to allow bail was joined in by the commonwealth at a habeas corpus hearing on a petition for bail made by the defense. The defense had subpoenaed prosecution witnesses and apparently was ready to try to make the prosecution show the results of tests of various exhibits including clothing Denhardt wore the night Mrs. Taylor was found shot to death near here.

Bond was fixed at $25,000 with Dr. A. T. McCormack, director of the Kentucky health department, as surety. Denhardt had been in jail in Louisville since he was bound over to the grand jury here Nov. 20 on the murder charge. He was brought here today for the habeas corpus hearing.

SUSPENSE HELD HARMFUL

King Remains at Fort While Mrs. Simpson Consults Lawyer at Riviera Haven

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 9—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin called the British cabinet into a sudden unexpected session tonight to discuss late developments in the constitutional crisis.

* * *

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 9—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin disclosed to the divided and anxious house of commons today that king and government still were hesitating on the answer to the royal dilemma whether Edward VIII will marry Wallis Simpson and lose his throne.

The first minister, after a night spent in seemingly futile conference with his sovereign, gave hope, however, that the crisis might reach its momentous climax tomorrow.

Can Release Decision

He told the crowded world benches and galleries:

"I regret I am not in a position to add anything [illegible] but I hope to make a statement tomorrow."

The members, increasingly concerned over economic and political results of the suspense, pressed him vainly for more.

King Edward, outwardly steadfast in his courage, remained at Fort Belvedere. Mrs. Simpson, conferring at a villa on the Cote D'Azur with her London solicitor, announced through a spokesman she had "signed no documents."

Thus for at least 24 more hours, it seemed the whole breath-taking situation must hang in the balance.

Word Expected Tomorrow

However, since the prime minister is not given to unfulfilled predictions, his words were interpreted as meaning his verdict on the future of king and throne and Wallis Simpson to parliament tomorrow.

The king may do one of three things:

1. Renounce his desire to make a morganatic marriage with the twice-divorced American.

2. Force a showdown and resignation of Baldwin and his government, seek support of his subjects in a constitutional fight which would have to be settled at the polling boxes.

3. Abdicate and marry his betrothed.

His last word to Baldwin, given in the tense hours at Fort Belvedere last night, was held in the empire's [illegible] box of secrets. The ministers who met with Baldwin for two hours and [illegible] this afternoon knew the nature of that word but found it [illegible] and perhaps acrimonious and troublous.

Cabinet Assembles

It was at 11 o'clock that the [illegible] cabinet ministers filed through the fog to enter No. 10 Downing street, the premier's official residence for their long morning meeting.

A swelling, restive crowd milled in the little street. Impatience was increasingly evident. Some of the subjects who sympathized loudly with the king a few days ago were asking "Why doesn't he make up his mind?"

They knew he and Baldwin had spent hours at Fort Belvedere last night. They knew nothing beyond that fact.

While they waited the lady in the case was reported to have received her attorney, Theodore Goddard, at Cannes for what was described merely as arrangements for the disposition of her new Cumberland Terrace home here.

Rumors Plentiful

Rumors flew thick and fast about London. One was that the king had yielded to his ministers and promised not to marry, another, that he had offered to abdicate on complicated terms.

One thing was certain—that Baldwin brought back to his cabinet a voluminous report.

In the thick of the ministerial dilemma were Walter T. Monckton and Sir Edgard Peacock, high officials of the Duchy of Cornwall. They left the meeting long enough

ROTARY HEARS DR.C.W. SAWYER

Problems of Caring for Mental Patients Discussed by Sanatorium Head.

Necessity of the public giving serious thought and attention to the problem of caring for persons afflicted with mental ailments was emphasized in a talk before the Marion Rotary club yesterday by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, head of the Sawyer Sanatorium at White Oaks farm, one of the country's outstanding hospitals for treatment of mental cases. He spoke following the weekly luncheon meeting of the club at Hotel Harding.

Following an explanation of the various phases of mental disorders and the importance of providing the best possible facilities for the care of patients, Dr. Sawyer voiced a warning against permitting politics to become a predominant factor in handling the situation. If a system of hospitalization under political management is set up, he said, the afflicted persons will get less attention than they do under conditions which are already inadequate. He warned also that there will be patients discharged who are not fit for contact with society, while others will be admitted to institutions when their condition does not warrant it.

Sooner or later, Dr. Sawyer declared, the public must face two major issues—the political aspect of this problem, and the question of meeting the expense.

Institutions Filled

Among various interesting and significant figures given by the speaker was the record showing that 16,692 are now housed in Ohio's institutions for the insane and that the patients in other related institutions, such as those established for the feeble-minded, run the total up to 22,299.

Demands upon facilities of hospitals and institutions are greater now than in the past, Dr. Sawyer said. One of the principal reasons, he asserted, is that more are sent to these places instead of being kept at home.

"The home instinct is breaking down. We are not caring for our relatives as we used to," he declared.

Division of mental cases into four classes was explained. First are mental defectives, persons unable to adjust their mental processes; second, psychoses, those definitely insane; third, psychoneuroses, which includes those who to all external appearances are mentally sound but who have and exercise peculiar thoughts and ideas, and fourth, persons generally classed as normal.

Hard To Place

Dr. Sawyer told of the difficulty encountered in determining just who should be regarded as normal, mainly because the standards for such appraisal are indefinite and inaccurate, and because personalities change with the passing years.

He placed emphasis upon the advisability of every individual appraising himself in that respect.

"If you understand your own personality, your limitations and defects, you may succeed to a greater extent than you have been," Dr. Sawyer said.

He told his listeners that behavior is by no means an infallible index to a person's mental condition. "There is a common idea that any person acting peculiarly outside of the ordinary is insane. That is not true," he said, explaining that there are often cases of persons who have appeared absolutely normal but who proved to be mentally unbalanced, while others outwardly erratic were mentally sound.

A kind and considerate attitude toward all mentally disturbed persons was urged as highly essential.

In the business session of the Rotary club, a unanimous vote was cast in favor of a proposed separation of the Ohio district into two districts, one in the eastern section of the state, the other in the western section, which would include Marion.

"MYSTERY GAS" to them BLUE SUNOCO to you

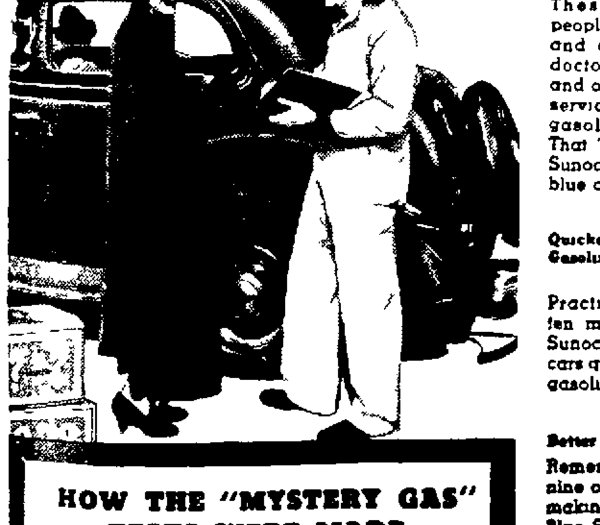
faster starting than 54 well-known gasolines

PROVED IN TESTS BY 1214 MOTORISTS IN FOURTEEN CITIES



These tests were made by people like yourself workmen and clerks, housewives and doctors, business executives and others All contributed their services in testing a "mystery gasoline" in their own cars. That "mystery gas" was Blue Sunoco without its identifying blue color

PROVED!

Quicker Starting Than 54 Other Gasolines, 11 of Which Were Extra Priced!

Practically nine out of every ten motorists who tested Blue Sunoco found that it started their cars quicker and easier than the gasolines they had been using.

PROVED!

Better All-Around Performance!

Remember, too, that more than nine out of every ten motorists making these tests proved that Blue Sunoco gave a better all-around performance than the gasolines they had been using.

Surely this is convincing evidence that Blue Sunoco is today's outstanding motor fuel at any price—and it sells at regular gas price. Test Blue Sunoco in your own car and let it prove its superiority.

QUESTIONNAIRE
Compared to the gasoline you have been using . . . did you get —
(1) quicker starting?	87% YES
(2) faster pickup?	80% YES
(3) more power on hills?	72% YES
(4) better all-around performance?	95% YES

HOW THE "MYSTERY GAS" TESTS WERE MADE

The Ross Federal Research Corporation asked at random 1214 motorists in 14 widely separated cities, to contribute their services in testing a "mystery gasoline" in their own cars. This gasoline was regular Blue Sunoco, without the blue color. The emptied tank of each car was filled with ten gallons of this colorless Blue Sunoco and later, the frank and uninfluenced opinions of each motorist were obtained by Ross Federal investigators. Of course some motorists were found to be regular Blue Sunoco users. They have been omitted from all computations.

That this "mystery gasoline" was regular Blue Sunoco was certified by the testing laboratories of E. W. Saybolt & Co., a recognized gasoline authority, whose men sealed the gasoline drums at the refinery and turned them over to Ross Federal for shipment to their representatives in the 14 cities.

STATE BOARD RULES IN PENSION CASES

[illegible] W J Francis chairman [illegible] Ralph W Emmons Mathiot was represented by Attorney George F Grant.

[illegible] was charged with incompetency and insubordination and originally was charged also with [illegible] in treatment of pension applicants. The latter charge however was dropped during the hearing.

Mathiot was charged with [illegible] [illegible] name of [illegible] on notarized form that required the signatures of the pensioner.

Both men denied the respective charges and called witnesses to testify in their behalf at the hearings here.

Charges Called Political

At the time of their removal [illegible] charges brought by the county pension board Kirby and Mathiot blamed their dismissal as the result of politics.

They expressed the opinion the state division of aid for the aged was determined to get them and [illegible] the county board was filing the charges only under pressure from the state division.

The state division of aid for the aged previously had removed Kirby from office on the same [illegible] of charges that resulted in his removal by the county board. However the attorney general held that the state board did not have the authority to appoint county pension administrators and consequently did not have power to remove them. That power the attorney general ruled belongs only to the county board.

The state division in view of the attorney general's opinion dropped its charges and told the situation before the county pension board. Several board members testified at the civil service commission hearing that state pension officials had virtually given them the choice of pressing charges against Kirby and Mathiot or [illegible]. These members explained the county board until approached by the state had no thought of filing removal charges and had praised Kirby's work to the [illegible] and recommended that he [illegible] [illegible].

It apparently was these testimony that made the civil service commission feel the county board might wish to withdraw its charges against Kirby or Mathiot.

King Edward [illegible] on a whole [illegible] ruling the [illegible] of five hundred million subjects clung to [illegible] [illegible] fortress.

His younger brother the Duke of Kent was there at his side to console him.

The royal brothers had been together almost without a break for the last 48 hours despite the fact that Kent's wife the young Princess Marina shortly is expecting her second child.

Not a single morning or afternoon London paper even pretended to have pierced the deep silence. Most of them seemed certain their king faced with Mrs Simpson's voluntary offer to retire from the scene finally had given in to Baldwin's pleading and promised to remain a bachelor king for the time at least.

The wish however possibly was father to the thought.

Downing street was crowded this morning but the watchers remained silent and undemonstrative. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

With the climax of the crisis at hand the people of London had abandoned the rowdy scenes that marked last weekend.

By The Associated Press

PASADENA Calif Dec 9 [illegible] [illegible] of Agriculture Wallace promised the American farmer a better program than the outlawed AAA today and declared [illegible] economic security for those who live off the soil is the administration objective.

Addressing the 18th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau federation the secretary said:

"You may have heard the idea advanced that the agricultural adjustment act should be reenacted that the program carried out under its original provisions was the best program agriculture ever had. But good as that program was we want to see it improved upon. A better program can and will be built."

Mr Jacoby then read [illegible] records in which the [illegible] [illegible] verdict.

Bindley Testifies

Mr Bindley was called to the stand by Mr Jacoby. He testified he had been appointed a fireman March 4 [illegible] by W [illegible] Shriver then safety director and held the position until May [illegible] when he was suspended by Fire Chief J F McFarland and [illegible] dismissed May 15 [illegible] by the safety director. The safety director at that time was [illegible] A Warrick.

The dismissal was approved by the civil service commission and Bindley took it to common pleas court where he was reinstated.

Mr Bindley said he did not return to work until March 1, 1936 after the city had taken the verdict to the court of appeals. Bindley said he worked from March of this year until May 27 when he and 10 other firemen and nine policemen were laid off as an economy measure. He returned to work last September following passage of a special one and one half mill levy for the police and fire departments.

Questioned by Mr Jacoby, Bindley stated his salary had been fixed by city ordinance at $152.50 a month. In 1932 when the general wage reductions in the city went into effect Bindley said he received [illegible] $122 a month and the same until the time of his dismissal May 15 1934.

From his dismissal to March 1 1936 he [illegible] he received no wages [illegible] [illegible] on cross examination by Mr Cathart stated he had performed no work as a fireman in that period. His first pay since the dismissal came early in March of this year.

The city has alleged Bindley failed to exercise due diligence in attempting to find other work during the suspension and dismissal. Bindley testified in answer to Mr Jacoby that he had worked several months as a salesman for Forest Glen Inc and after quitting that position tried unsuccessfully several other places to find work. He was unemployed from July 1935 to March 1936 he said.

Mr Cathart then cross examined Bindley.

Gwendolyn Northrup of the Zion Evangelical and Reformed church at Prospect won the silver medal and the honor of representing Marion county in a district Prince of Peace declamation contest in the near future when she was adjudged winner of the county contest which was held last night at the Green Camp M. E. church.

The program included vocal and instrumental music by Mrs. J. Kreigel of Prospect and Miss Pauline Johnson of LaRue.

Lycox was arrested at his home Dec. 3 by [illegible] and W. H. Willis, deputies from the sheriff's office. He pleaded guilty to the charge at his arraignment in municipal court later. Mrs. Thurn Offers Guide To Home Candy Making

[illegible] are [illegible] hired be to candy under the [illegible] city in the mid- rush. I can just [illegible] the [illegible] about making [illegible] giving the family a delicious surprise [illegible] the children joyous [illegible] that tell the [illegible] and [illegible] the date and the general coopera- [illegible] usual [illegible] of candy [illegible] will re- [illegible] unit of

Candy making need not be complicated. If your experiment extend only to a bowl of rich fondant which may be varied with nuts, ginger, fruit and chocolate for stuffing dates and prunes you will find plenty of eager customers among your family and guests.

A dainty box of home-made sweets will solve the gift problem for that difficult person who seems to have everything. I know several women who carefully save attractive boxes through the year and make up their gift assortments of candy brightened by sections of candied fruit rind, an easily prepared delicacy which is liked at holiday feasts.

Accurate measuring is particularly important in candy making. Line up your spatula and your candied pots and cups before you go enthusiastically into the [illegible].

Nothing Complicated

Comparatively little in the way of equipment is needed for home candy making other than that which will be found in the average kitchen. Plus the broad bladed [illegible] flexible creaming knife or spatula and a marble slab.

Other essentials are a large wooden spoon for beating candy, heavy saucepans and double boiler, a small [illegible] food-chopper, [illegible] and [illegible] of waxed paper. A [illegible] fork for dipping the candies is useful and a new medicine dropper is ideal for measuring precisely the correct amount of flavoring. Flavoring can easily be overdone and the dropper will restrict your generosity.

One of the few recognized tricks in flavoring is the fact that fresh fruit flavoring lends itself better to soft candy while oil of fruit flavors are better for hard candy. The various flavors can be purchased at the grocery or drug store.

The thermometer should be placed in the syrup before it reaches the boiling point to avoid the risk of breakage. After using place it immediately in very hot water and allow it to cool slowly.

Important temperatures in candy making are: Thread 230 degrees F. Soft Ball 238 degrees F. Hard Ball 254 degrees F. Crack 290 degrees F. and Hard Crack 310 degrees F.

Special Pans Preferred

Since milk and cream mixtures boil up considerably it is important to use a large saucepan for [illegible] recipes. If you intend to do much candy making I suggest that you dedicate saucepans specifically to this work as sugar readily absorbs other cooking flavors.

[illegible] marks the quality where sugar is concerned. So mark the difference between powdered and confectioners sugar. Superfine powdered sugar is a fairly coarse pulverized grade that is especially adapted to the sweetening of fruits, cereals and iced beverages. It dissolves readily without a tendency to form lumps.

Confectioners sugar is very finely pulverized and is excellent for [illegible] making [illegible] icings or cold fondant. Both of these sugars are ideal for coatings for certain kinds of candy.

Simple directions are in order for caramelizing sugar: put the required sugar in an iron skillet and heat it slowly, stirring constantly until it is melted and turns a light brown in color. The temperature should [illegible] above 300 degrees F.

If you have no candy thermometer rely [illegible] on the cold water test and remember to take your candy off the fire while testing. Every second counts.

To make the soft ball test for fudge, take pan off fire, put a [illegible] of candy in half a cup of cold water and see if you can gather the drop into a soft ball that will [illegible] its shape. If not continue cooking.

[illegible] hard [illegible] crack [illegible] just enough liquid to melt it without burning [illegible] candy [illegible] butter [illegible] expert candy makers [illegible] in the [illegible] that butter contains.

Be careful not to have the flame too high [illegible] by burning and wasting.

Little Blue Room

[illegible] was in store [illegible] the living [illegible] with Mrs Warren called to [illegible] and join them. [illegible] do my dear? [illegible] You're looking [illegible] but very pretty [illegible] was a plump [illegible] woman on whom [illegible] clothes never looked fashionable. She [illegible] great deal from what [illegible] and spent much [illegible] fashionable resorts [illegible] to come on an er- [illegible] concerns you Sally [illegible] She wants you [illegible] spend a month with [illegible] from one to the [illegible] amazement. With [illegible] sounds a little [illegible] Mrs Morris. But [illegible] You see I'm go- ing. Joe is taking [illegible] place in the Cana- [illegible] I find very helpful [illegible] are in dreadful [illegible] absolutely refuses to [illegible] the naughty girl pre- [illegible] concerned about her [illegible] won't leave home. Of [illegible] want her puttering [illegible] house alone what [illegible] threats we've been [illegible] so I suggested I'd [illegible] cousin of ours to stay with her. Mary refused to have anything to do with that suggestion. She wants you to come into the house for a month instead.

What do you say to this Sally? asked Mrs Warren.

But I have my job. I can't give that up, protested Sally.

No, of course. But you'd be able to spend a good deal of time with Mary. She simply wants someone in the house.

Are you sure Mary really wants me? asked Sally slowly.

She's coming by later to talk to you about it, said Mrs Morris. She does want you indeed.

I—I'll have to think about it and talk to Mary, said Sally. What do you think, Mother?

I think it would be [illegible] for both you two, said Mrs Warren. You need to go out more Sally and Mary will see to that.

We should consider it such a favor, said Mrs Morris, patting Sally's hand with her own plump ringed one.

Sally left them and went upstairs to her own room. She was frankly puzzled. Of course she and Mary had been friends for years and since Philip Page's coming they had been together oftener but Mary's choice of her to stay in the Morris house for company still puzzled Sally. Apparently Mary's refusal to go away for the hot month of August was easily explained by her desire to stay near Philip. Suddenly Sally saw that Mary's reason for wanting her must involve Philip too. She expected to see and hear more of Philip by having Sally in the house.

The moment the thought occurred to her Sally dismissed it from her mind. However true it seemed she had no right to judge Mary's motives. Later when Mary came to her room Sally was glad she had banished the thought.

I think I'm getting nerves like mother, Mary confessed as she perched on the edge of Sally's bed. At night I wake up and imagine I hear people prowling about the lawn and porch. Once I was so sure there was someone on my balcony I went out there to see.

Goose, scolded Sally. You need to go away instead of your mother.

No, I want to stay. But I want someone with me. You will come, won't you Sally? I've planned it all. I've even had Mattie get the little blue room next to mine ready for you.

Of course I'll come, said Sally.

Like Cinderella

Thus it was that Sally found herself established in the Morris mansion. The little blue room proved out to be twice the size of Sally's own bedroom. It got its name from the color of the deep turquoise rug that covered the floor and the draperies that framed the tall windows. The furnishings were of walnut, [illegible] piece that [illegible] with the polish that age gives to fine wood. Sally liked the rich [illegible] and the dark tones of the walnut better than the ivory and gold glitter of Mary's room.

Sally was amused at the sight of her small wardrobe which the maid had carefully hung in the clothes closet. At least two-thirds of the closet was still vacant after all Sally's possessions had been established.

As she brushed her hair and put on the most festive of her voile dresses Sally thought: I'm not Sally Warren any more. I have a maid to press my clothes and I am driven to the office in state. I shall live in luxury a little while and then one day I shall pack up and go back like Cinderella to my [illegible] but by that time I shall be quite spoiled.

Dinner at the Morris house, Sally was to discover, was always a formal meal with a manservant skilfully serving. Instead of her father sitting at the head of the table and telling bits of news from the office of the newspaper there was Mr Morris who ate his dinner almost wholely in silence and allowed Sally and Mary to do most of the talking.

Sally stared at Mr Morris a good [illegible] first few days. He was a man of more than average height and somewhat heavily built. His voice was deep and even in the simple matters had a commanding note. He had heavy iron gray hair and bushy brows. His eyes, unlike Mary's, were small but very piercing.

Sally wondered if Mr Morris knew that she worked for his enemy Philip Page. She rather [illegible] he did not know. He would [illegible] Mary's [illegible]

Smooth Mr Benton Arrives

On the third day of her stay with Mary Morris another guest arrived. Sally was introduced to him at dinner when he sat opposite her. He was a Mr Giles Benton [illegible] had come down, so Mary informed Sally, to act as efficiency expert for Mr Morris.

Afterwards on the terrace Mr Benton made himself very agreeable to Sally and Mary but for some reason which she could not explain [illegible] Sally did not like him. She was glad when a servant came to tell her she was wanted on the telephone.

Philip Page's voice came to her over the wire. I've got to go out of town on business. I'll be gone [illegible] hours and there's something I want you to look into for me.

I'll be glad to, said Sally, pleased and proud that he relied on her.

McDonald's in trouble. Go down tomorrow after you're through at the office and talk to them. Give me a full report when I get back.

Sally went back to the terrace to find Mr Morris gone and Mary talking with Giles Benton.

Do you have to go to the office? demanded Mary eagerly. I'll take you if you do.

No, not tonight. Just an errand I have to do tomorrow, said Sally. She knew Mary wanted to know if her message was from Philip but Sally determined to be secret with Philip's affairs.

Miss Warren works for Philip Page, said Mary to Giles Benton.

For Mr Page, eh? said Giles. He rubbed a hand over his smooth hair and Sally saw the gleam of a ring on his finger. I was about to ask you, Miss Warren, if you wouldn't show me something of the town tomorrow.

If I have time, said Sally. I'll be glad to.

Why, Sally wondered afterwards as she got ready for bed, did he want her to show him the town when Mary was the logical one to do it? Mary had not offered. Perhaps she had deliberately shunted the duty to Sally.

Perhaps that's one of my duties as a companion, Sally said to herself. She stood looking out of her window at the long shadows of a clump of cedars. While she watched Mr Morris and Giles Benton emerged from the shadows and paced up and down the moonlit stretch of lawn. They were in earnest conversation. Sally could hear the murmur of their voices and see their animated gestures. Once Giles turned and stared up at her window. Sally drew back. It was only idle staring. He could not have known it was her window much less have seen her. Yet Sally had a strange feeling that the two men had been talking about her.

She wondered as she got into bed and pulled the cool linen sheets about her if she too were getting nerves after only a few days in the gloomy Morris mansion.

Sally finds May McDonald sick at her home tomorrow

LEGION MEMBERS TO ASSIST PARTY

Post To Take Care of Shut-Ins On Christmas

Plans for the Bird McGinnis Post of the American Legion to take charge of the shut-ins Christmas in connection with the annual Christmas party were made at a meeting at the Dugout on South High street last night. More than 10 members were present.

The committee to supervise arrangements to taking toys and gifts to children confined to their homes or in the hospital includes Fred J. Miller, county sheriff, Dana Daniels and Frank Bowen. The committee is to obtain automobiles for carrying the gifts from the toy center on South State street adjoining the Y. M. C. A. to the children.

A feature of last night's meeting was the showing of motion pictures of Death Valley and government parks in the west. They were shown by Rev. H. D. Halderman. It was announced pictures of the George Washington railroad associated with the C. & O. railroad will be shown Jan. 19 at the Dugout.

TAKING PART IN CHRISTMAS EVENT

Miss Ruth Turner, daughter of Mr and Mrs George E. Turner of 181 Hane avenue, an officer of Kappa Sigma Theta, will be a member of the receiving line at the annual Christmas tea and reception Sunday afternoon at Capital university in Columbus.

The affair, sponsored annually by the organization, is the highlight of the winter social season and is held in Trautman hall, branch of the women's dormitory. The entire student body, faculty members and friends are invited to attend.

Miss Turner, a junior at the university, is enrolled in the arts college.

An English surgeon has invented a gas mask that does not use chemical filters, a wearer breathing air supplied from a reservoir suspended from his shoulders.

FOR CHRISTMAS PARTIES AND GIFTS

Christmas candies add to the pleasure of holiday parties and make appropriate gifts. Here is an array of fudge, coconut candles and caramel fondant rolls which is both colorful and appetizing.

POPULAR CHRISTMAS SWEETS RECIPE

Pop Corn Recipes

Pop corn, salted, buttered and mixed with molasses is a whole[illegible] inexpensive confection. Delicious Maple Corn Balls are made thus:

Three quarts popped corn, one cup maple syrup, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon shortening, one-half teaspoon salt. Pop the corn and pick over, discarding hard kernels, and put in a large kettle. Melt shortening in sauce pan, add syrup and sugar. Bring to the boiling point and let boil until mixture will become brittle when tried in cold water.

Pour mixture gradually while stirring constantly over corn which has been sprinkled with salt. Shape into balls, using as little pressure as possible.

Much water is lost during the popping of the corn and so it contains more nutriment than does corn meal or any of the corn breakfast foods on the market. Its fuel value being 1860 calories per pound. Freshly popped corn is so very dry and porous that its flavor and texture deteriorate rapidly if it is kept very long after popping because of the absorption of moisture from the air. It is as easily and thoroughly digested as other kinds of cereal foods.

Popcorn cake may be moulded in the form of soldiers, cannon or picturesque little figures.

Another splendid and much liked recipe for the popcorn balls in which the process is identical with number one calls for two cups granulated sugar, one cup brown sugar, three-fourths cup corn syrup, one cup water, one tablespoon shortening and five quarts popcorn. One cup of peanuts may be included in either recipe.

Before the days of [illegible] the favorite method for crisp popcorn balls was to boil two cups sugar, one half cup hot water and four tablespoons vinegar for 15 minutes, removing from the fire to add one tablespoon shortening and pour over four quarts popped corn. This quantity will make about 20 good sized popcorn balls.

Popcorn Molasses Candy

One cup molasses, butter the size of an egg, three cups popped corn. Put the cup of molasses in a saucepan and let it boil until it candies. Remove from the fire and add the butter. Put the popcorn in this and stir well. Pour in buttered dripping pan or long glass dish and press it down flat with a spatula.

When cool cut in square pieces and wrap in wax paper. This is simple, inexpensive and really tasty.

Cream Fondant

There are many variations for fondant and one recommendation for using it is that it may be prepared far in advance. In fact this recipe is improved by packing it in a bowl and allowing it to season for at least two days before using. It will keep for several weeks.

Bitter cold weather is just the time for making fondant, that is it never should be attempted on a muggy or damp day. It should not be stirred after the sugar is melted and the final heating must be administered when it is just cool, not hot and not cold. If fondant is beaten when it is too hot, it will leave your candy grainy.

Two cups sugar, one cup heavy cream, one tablespoon light corn syrup, pinch salt.

Place all the ingredients in a pan and cook over a slow fire until the sugar is dissolved. Then continue cooking until it forms a soft ball when tested in cold water, 238 to 240 degrees F. Pour on a wet platter or marble slab, sprinkled with water to help it [illegible]. Do not move platter while it is [illegible].

When lukewarm commence working candy to the center of the platter using a spatula with a forward and backward motion. When the mass is creamy white it can be taken up in the hands and kneaded. Place in a bowl to season.

Wintergreen Creams

Only fondant and wintergreen flavoring are needed for these. [illegible] flavor fondant quite strongly with wintergreen. Melt it and when melted pour into a warm candy funnel. The ordinary kitchen funnel may be used if the special tool is not available. Drop on heavily waxed paper in desired size.

Peppermint creams may be made the same way but add two drops of essence of lemon to the peppermint flavoring.

After Dinner Mints

In case you hesitate to attempt fondant [illegible]

Three cups granulated sugar, one cup water, two tablespoons light corn syrup, eight to 10 drops oil of peppermint, two cups powdered sugar, one cup cornstarch.

Combine granulated sugar, water and syrup. Cook to 265 degrees F. stirring only until sugar is dissolved. With this candy be careful to remove with dampened brush or swab any sugar crystals which may form on sides of the pan. Pour on oiled slab. As soon as cool enough to handle add oil of peppermint. With spatula work sides of candy into center, then pull (with oiled hands) until light and fluffy. The pulling should continue until candy is firm. Finally stretch into a long thin rope and cut into small pieces with sharp scissors.

Sift together the powdered sugar and cornstarch, drop the cut candies immediately into this covering completely and let stand for two days in a moderately warm place to ripen. Then shake candies in a sifter to remove excess sugar. Save the sugar mixture to use again with other batches of mints. Keep candies in a tightly covered box or jar.

Fruit Nut Caramels

One cup figs, one cup dates, two cups walnuts.

Wash and stone the dates, wash figs and remove stems and put with the nuts through food chopper. Mix together thoroughly and press firmly three-fourths inch thick into a small buttered pan or dish. Cut in squares and wrap in wax paper or shape in small balls [illegible] powdered sugar. These are excellent for the children.

Chocolate Nut Clusters

[illegible] one-half pound milk chocolate, two cups peanuts coarsely chopped, [illegible] teaspoon salt.

Melt chocolate in the top of double boiler. Add salt and nuts and drop from tip of a teaspoon on waxed paper. Set aside to harden. [illegible] chopped walnuts may be used in place of the peanuts.

For [illegible] Raisin Clusters [illegible] use two cups seedless raisins for the nuts.

Bob Monnett Expected To Play in Title Game Sunday

A Bucyrus man, Robert Monnett, is one of the stalwarts who helped the Green Bay Wisconsin Packers win the 1936 title of the Western division of the National Professional Football league.

He is expected to be in the line-up when the Packers clash with the Boston Red Skins, Eastern division title winners, for the national professional title next Sunday at Polo Grounds in New York.

Monnett's colorful four-year career with the Western title holders follows outstanding performances on the gridirons of Bucyrus High school and Michigan State [illegible] where his handling of the right halfback post won him a place on the honorable mention lists of several All-American choices.

As a player for Bucyrus High school, Monnett demonstrated the ability that later won college and professional football honors. He was football captain at Bucyrus two years and an all North Central Ohio choice for a halfback position. He also played forward on the Bucyrus basketball team.

Monnett is the son of Mrs. [illegible] Monnett of Bucyrus. He enrolled at Michigan State college immediately after his graduation from Bucyrus High in 1929. There Coach Jim Crowley, one of the famous Four Horsemen who now is at Fordham, directed his talents. From college he went to the Green Bay Packers and has been one of the team's mainstays since.

The Bucyrus ace weighs around 18[illegible] pounds and is approximately five feet seven inches in height. His speed on the gridiron is one of his greatest assets.

Landis Losing Rule Row With Club Owners

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—Step one in the campaign to clip the all powerful wings of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, czar of baseball, has been completed.

Over the dynamic commissioner's protest, the majors have joined the minors in voting to recommend to clubs of lower classification all the players they want without telling him about it.

Next, unless all signs fail and the commissioner stops the rush, will come a movement to cancel the sandlot rule from the baseball statute. This would permit major leaguers to raid the fertile [illegible] fields without running the risk of losing a good ball player—a risk that confronts the Cleveland Indians in the Feller case.

Times have changed. So has the use of Landis' whip.

When the commissioner was named in 1921 the minor leagues were fighting for their existence with the majors and their bulging bankrolls endangering the little fellows. Then came the farm systems to change all that.

Today, estimates minor league Commissioner W. G. Bramham, all but 10 of the 186 minor league clubs are owned by or have working agreements with major league teams. Hence what's good for the major is good for the minors.

Landis, who never before lost a battle in his near 16 years of czardom, now has lost three within six days. At Montreal the minors first accepted, then unanimously rejected his proposal to submit full information to him on any players recommended by a major to a minor league club. Yesterday both the National and American leagues turned down the same proposal.

MERCHANTS DEFEAT CALEDONIA CAGERS

Score 26-23 Victory on Shovel Court, Play Columbus Team Tonight

Dick Tuttle, forward, paced the Marion Merchants to a 26 to 23 victory over Caledonia Independent team on the Marion [illegible] Shovel court last night. The high scoring forward dumped in [illegible] action shots to account for [illegible] of the Merchants' points.

Gist of the visiting team was successful in four attempts from the field for [illegible] points, but the heavy scoring of almost the entire Marion team outweighed his efforts.

The Merchants will play again tonight when the Omar Bakery team of Columbus visits the shovel court. The invading team has won 6 of 7 games this season. The game is set for 8:15 [illegible] and Manager Robert Putnam requests all members of the Merchants squad to report at 8:15.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—Connie Mack, the oldest major league baseball manager in years and in service, was elected yesterday a director of the American league. Because of the serious illness of John Shibe, president of the Philadelphia Athletics, Mack, vice president of the club as well as manager, was chosen to fill his place.

RESERVE AND B.-W. TAKE EIGHT PLACES ON ALL-OHIO ELEVEN

Case, Denison and Heidelberg Draw Remaining Posts in Associated Press Poll

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 9—The Cleveland area walked off with the heavy end of the laurels today as the state's coaches, sports writers and officials selected the 1936 Associated Press All-Ohio football team, nine of the 11 first stringers coming from the lake front schools.

Evidently believing that teams with outstanding records must have outstanding talent, the ballots tabulated by the Associated Press placed four of Western Reserve's gridders and the same number from Baldwin-Wallace on the first eleven.

Case, Denison and Heidelberg, all with in-between records for the season, grabbed the remaining berths.

For the first time since the formation of the Buckeye conference no players from that loop were voted into first-string jobs, seven being from the Ohio conference and the others from the unattached Red Cats.

Five Buckeye players made the second team, however, and eight were on the third team. The results were tabulated from votes sent to the 35 Ohio colleges which have football teams, 35 sports writers and 35 officials who handle the games.

Three of the players repeated as first team selections, Krause and Noble of Baldwin-Wallace and Ray Zeh of Reserve being the two-timers. The other eight members of the 1935 team were seniors. Of the 1936 eleven five are juniors and six are seniors.

The first team line stacks up at a 194-pound average from end to end and the average height is over six feet. The backfield, filled with scoring talent, power, speed and elusiveness, averages 185 pounds.

The selections:

First team—Frank Kelker of Western Reserve and William Davidson of Baldwin-Wallace, ends; Phil Ragazzo of Western Reserve and W. Krause of Baldwin-Wallace, tackles; Gene Myslenski of Western Reserve and Bob [illegible] of Heidelberg, guards; Alex Stewart of Denison, center; Ken Noble of Baldwin-Wallace, Ray Zeh of Western Reserve, Norman Schoen of Baldwin-Wallace and [illegible] Milhosky of Case, backs.

Second team—Mealy of Muskingum and Anthonsen of Mt. Union, ends; Lewine of Miami and Fruthaus of Cincinnati, tackles; Donatelli of Ohio university and Honda of Cincinnati, guards; Roberts of Mt. Union, center; Haly of Cincinnati, Jindra of Akron, Bacher of Mt. Union and Abdulla of Akron, backs.

Third team—Schroeder of Ohio Wesleyan and Ziemke of Mt. Union, ends; Anderson of Case and Shenna of Dayton, tackles; P. Wagner of Dayton and Del Corso of Baldwin-Wallace, guards; Gutzwiller of Dayton, center; Walker of Miami, Montgomery of Ohio university, Hageman of Ohio Wesleyan and Llewellyn of Miami, backs.

The honorable mention list includes two Ohio Wesleyan players. They are Capaln, guard, and Brooke, back.

Cleveland To Have at Least 7 New Pitchers

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 9—The Cleveland Indians, still awaiting a decision on whether the sensational Bob Feller will remain their pitching prize, will have at least seven new moundsmen flinging away during spring training.

The veteran Earl Whitehill from Washington and the youthful Tom Drake from New Orleans came to the local club after September deals which saw the Indians get Joe Heving and Al Milnar from Milwaukee and Minneapolis, respectively, of the American association; Carl Fischer from Buffalo of the International league and Bill Zuber, speedball king of the Mid-Atlantic league, from the Zanesville club.

If Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis declares Feller, 17-year-old Iowa schoolboy who joined the club late this season and established an all-time American league strikeout mark, is still the Indians' property, club officials feel Cleveland has a good chance to catch the New York Yankees.

Whitehill was acquired late last night in a pitching deal which sent Thornton (Lefty) Lee of Cleveland to the Chicago White Sox and Johnny Salveson, [illegible] Chicago's right hander, to the Senators in turn.

Drake, a young right hander used chiefly as a relief hurler, won 13 and lost five last season.

Milt Galatzer, veteran outfielder, and Charlie George, a long time major and minor league catcher, went to New Orleans for Drake with an unannounced sum of cash. The Southern association club is a Cleveland farm.

Whitehill, soon 37 years old and long a Detroit and Washington standby, won 14 and lost 11 for Washington last season. Before the right hander was acquired O'Neill sent George Blaeholder, a veteran right hander, to Milwaukee in part payment for Heving, and sold Jim [illegible], [illegible] outfielder, outright to Kansas City.

Zuber, who ranked among the Mid-Atlantic league leaders in strikeouts, won 18 and lost 7 last season.

The Cincinnati Reds announced pitcher Leroy Herrmann has been sent to the Missions of the Pacific coast league in part payment for Eddie Joost, star shortstop-second baseman.

"Afraid? No me." Turning abruptly he climbed into his car and swung it around so quickly that I almost turned over.

Jerry Leads Way

But Jerry is a wizard with cars and not even his mother registered any alarm as he righted his ancient vehicle and headed it toward the hill. He was half way up it by the time the rest of us climbed into the Underwood limousin[illegible] Harry at the wheel. Jim beside him holding the folded emergency stretched in place outside the window and with Dicky, Lillian, Mrs. Ticer and me in the roomy tonneau.

Jerry came to a stop at the top of the hill and waited obediently until we came up and descended from the big car. Then Mr. Underwood said briskly: "Stay with your mother and Jim a minute" and as [illegible] Dicky [illegible] and me to step aside with him.

"This is all nonsense," he growled. "Compelling you women to come along just because that fully won't [illegible] without Mrs. Graham. But I suppose—"

Insist on Going

"If you'll stop supposing and worrying over our finer sensibilities," his wife told him caustically, "you'll get along better. If it will be a consolation to you I'll give you the assurance that none of the three of us will approach the dead man any nearer than is necessary to Mrs. Ti[illegible] to point out the place where she saw the body. But if the man should be living—and you should need us—we'll be right on the job."

"You don't have to tell me that," her husband told her affectionately [illegible] with a command to Mrs. Ticer and Jerry to show the way, our procession fell into line, Jerry a few steps ahead, Mrs. Ticer with her hand clinging fast to mine close behind him, Harry, Lillian, Dicky and Jim bringing up the rear.

Ready for Emergency

I knew that the men did not wholly trust Jerry Ticer's assurance that the sinister watchers of the shack had gone away. I had seen that their right hands were [illegible] to the [illegible] pocket [illegible] know that they were ready for an emergency.

But our progress was undisturbed by anything but the whir of wings or the scamper of paws in the [illegible] woods [illegible] [illegible] farmhouse [illegible]

CROWDS JEER AT ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY

Public indignation over the stand taken by the Archbishop of Canterbury in opposition to the friendship of King Edward VIII for Mrs. Wallis Simpson ran so high that the head of the Church of England was lustily booed when he left No. 10 Downing street above after a conference with Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin who has also taken a stand against the king. (International Illustrated News Radio Soundphoto)

Lots of Hard Work Ahead for Poultry Flocks Here

The future doesn't hold a very bright outlook for Marion County poultry flocks. It's all because they are faced with the machine age in its worst form—highpowered, speedy and wholesale production. The situation is expected to result from the introduction of electrical service on more than 900 farms in the county when the 255 miles of power lines of the Marion Rural Electric Cooperative Inc. are established next year.

Hens throughout the county can look forward with considerable foreboding to the probable installation of 12 and 14 hour working days by farmers. It is expected nearly every farmer who has a hen house will immediately put in electric lights as soon as power is available, turn on the lights long before dawn and thus trick his hens into believing it's time to go to work.

Winter production of eggs in the county is expected to soar to record heights next winter when the artificial daylight system goes into general effect for the first time, poultrymen here predicted.

Large hatcheries in the county and many smaller producers whose farms are located on main roads near power lines already established have used the system for several years and have found it practical and profitable. The poultry house is usually equipped with an automatic lighting system which switches on the lights several hours before actual daylight breaks, causing the hens to awaken and begin their day's work ahead of time. The lights are then shut off as soon as normal daylight appears but are turned on again at sunset for two or three hours.

The hen's working day consequently ranges from 10 to 14 hours or longer if the poultryman wishes throughout the year. If daylight alone is used the productive day ranges from about eight and one-half hours in December to 15 in June. This month the sun rises anywhere from 6:45 a. m. to 7:20 and sets from 4:20 to 5 p. m.

One hatcheryman now using the artificial system has an automatic switch which turns on his hen house lights at 6 a. m. until sunrise and again at 8 p. m. for an other hour or two. The idea is that the more a hen scratches the more she eats and the more she eats the more she lays.

The 255 miles of power lines which are to be established through the Marion County Farm bureau by the Marion cooperative will be erected early in 1937. The project was made possible by the recent grant of a long-time federal loan of $265,000 to the cooperative.

The introduction of artificial lighting is not expected to affect the year-around production of eggs since through the summer the natural daylight lasts long enough for most producers. It will, however, result in increased production in the winter when egg prices are high and the demand somewhat greater than in the summer.

Many farmers not supplied with electricity at present have been using kerosene lamps as an artificial source of light. They have been found satisfactory as far as their influence on the hens is concerned but are much less convenient to use than electric lights.

Twenty-six of the 45 workers are [illegible] recreational leadership [illegible] professional recreational leaders in the Y. M. C. A. gym [illegible] leisure time activities.

Some of the [illegible] schools [illegible] during recess [illegible] acting as [illegible] in handicraft [illegible] hobbies among the younger children [illegible] trimming project [illegible] workers at the sewing center and two are employed in the NYA office.
